

Henry P. (Hank) Brehm, a native of Brooklyn, New York, received his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts from New York University. He earned the Ph.D. in sociology at the University of Maryland in College Park in 1970.

Prior to joining the faculty of the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) full-time, he worked for the U.S. Public Health Service and the Social Security Administration doing research and research management on aging and disability.

At UMBC he taught, performed research, and wrote on: health care organization, delivery, and financing; disability; and issues in health and aging. He has authored or co-authored a number of articles and books dealing with these issues.

Hank Brehm is professor emeritus at UMBC, the title conferred after his retirement in 2001.

On the Commission on Aging, his primary areas of interest are health and health care of the aging and aged.

Henry (Hank) Brehm